

IRVING PARK NEIGHBORS ASSOCIATION

3911 North St. Louis, Chicago IL 60618

IPNA Mission Statement:

Irving Park Neighbors (IPNA) is a volunteer community organization open to all residents within the boundaries of Kedzie, Irving Park, Central Park and Addison. We are a totally volunteer group with no affiliations with any political party or elected official. We are open to all residents, renters as well as homeowners within the defined boundaries.

IPN takes an active interest in issues that have an impact on the immediate neighborhood. Through door to door polling and votes held in public meetings, IPN seeks to get the largest possible consensus from the community at large before taking a position on issues as a group.

Press release:

The most predominant issue that IPN has been involved to date has been the site development of the vacant former International Paper Site at Addison and Kimball. Since current zoning guidelines and City policy have limited the development options for the site, IPN has become involved to try to assess and demonstrate the community's interest there. IPN feels that zoning and Land Development guidelines are matters of public policy and residents in the direct vicinity of a site should have a say in the implementation of that policy.
